John T. Ryan, a Buffalo lawyer, who, according to Von der Goltz, acted as financial agent for the Well-and Canal expedition in Buffalo, admitted receiving a telegram from John Devoy, editor of the Gaelic American, introducing Von der Goltz and asking Ryan "to do all he could to help him." Von der Goltz, under the name of Bridgeman Taylor, called on him and introduced himself. Mr. Ryan said a short time later he called at the Merchants' and Traders' Bank in Buffalo and got a remittance not tell what his mission was, but said that his employer was Steffens.

Mr. Ryan advanced Von der Goltz $100 out of his own pocket, which has returned to him.
Q. Were you employed as attorney in this matter? A. I thought so.
Q. Who was your employer? A. I never ascertained.
Q. Know Steffens? A. I did not know at the time I got the money who he was. I knew nothing of scheme to

Relations Business Friends

When Greenhut's popular "Big Store" enters into business relations with anybody it immediately secures a business friend.

That's the natural result of 20 years' close study of the needs of the masses; it is the logical effect of the exercise of "the square deal" to everybody.

In these stirring times, when prices are "up" and merchandise scarce, - when people more than ever weigh carefully the work that must be done by the hard-earned dollar, Greenhut's store is a potent factor and a helpful
